

SOCIETY

Owing to the delightfully cool weather of the past week, society has indulged to the fullest extent in a series of dances, afternoons and evenings having been taken up almost entirely in tripping the light fantastic.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Steiner of New Orleans, who has the Eltham house for the summer, gave a delightful house dance. Several visitors were entertained at this time. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Coors, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Wilkinson, Miss Maybelle Lovelace and her guest, Miss Flinley, Miss Lora Lovelace, Miss Bonnett, Mr. Gillette Cornish and his guests, Messrs. Bushnell and Smith, who were classmates of Yale; Dr. Lovelace, Messrs. Emory Davis and William J. White.

Scandrett Party.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Scandrett entertained at the Woolsey house from 4 to 7 at a "the damask." Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Coors, Jr., were the sponsors to this delightful affair. Others who partook of Mr. Scandrett's hospitality were: Miss Dorothy McMillen, Miss Katherine McMillen, Miss Caroline Michaels, Miss Louise Thomas, Miss Shirley Von Wachhausen and Miss Myrl Hope; Messrs. Ray McCanna, Joe McCanna, Ralph Keicher, Charles Lemire, Gillette Cornish, Bushnell, Stanley Smith, Gordon Goss, John Lammons, Fred Lauthy and Sam Pickard.

The Summer Dance.

Tuesday evening again witnessed a merry gathering at the Woman's club where Mrs. Frank E. Summers entertained with an informal dance in honor of her sisters, Mrs. Gilbert of La Junta, Colo., and Miss Hart of Durden, who have been visiting Mrs. Summers for several weeks. This dance was proclaimed one of the most delightful affairs of the season by all in attendance, for the hostess with charming ingenuity had arranged a number of individual diversions, among them a feature dance where each guest was provided with sparklers which were lighted at candles arranged for the purpose. The orchestra played appropriate selections from "The Firefly," making a very effective dance. In the room where the punch was served cozy corners were arranged and Navajo blankets decorated the floors and walls. In the course of the evening a sumptuous dinner was served. The last dance was a "labor" dance, the favors being caps, fans and other trophies winding up with a ribbon dance which afforded much amusement. The invited guests were: Misses Horning of Kansas City, Mo.; Folley of Canton, O.; Lora Lovelace, Maybelle Lovelace, Martha Valliant, Kemperich, McElhaney, Joann H. Mrs. Averitt of Isleta, Mesita, and Madeline H. G. Coors, Jr., H. Gillette, Frank Hart, L. M. Bushnell, George A. Votham, Albert Simms, L. L. Lewis, G. Steiner of New Orleans, Messrs. Emory Davis, Ernest Landoll, William White, Tom Egan, Bob Clegg, "Doc" Thirteenth, George Dawson, Ralph Keicher, Arthur Sack, C. J. Wood, Jr., M. Wood, Gillette Cornish, John F. Simon, Harry Dick, N. G. McCloskey, Dr. W. H. Lovelace, Mr. Sam Pickard, Mr. Benson.

Phi Mu Dance.

The Phi Mu sorority entertained the members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and their ladies at a delightful dance at the Woman's club last evening. All Greek letter men in Albuquerque, not members of the P. K. A., were invited to the dance and quite a few responded among them being Gillette Cornish, H. G. Coors, Jr., Lester Cooper and Arthur Sack. The P. K. A. men enjoyed themselves immensely, the Phi Mus having made every arrangement for an ideal party.

Dance for Miss Nash.

Miss Louise Nash entertained last night at her home on East Gold with an informal dance in honor of her audience will attend.

Mrs. Gould Hostess.

Mrs. J. G. Gould was a charming hostess at her home on South Fourth street on Wednesday afternoon at a reception for her sister, Mrs. Rhodes of Los Angeles, who is stopping over here for a short visit on her way to the exposition. Mrs. Rhodes left this afternoon, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Gould, who will go with her to Santa Fe where they will take in the sights of interest in that ancient city.

Bible Club Social.

On Friday evening the T. E. L. Evangelist's Bible class of the Baptist church had a delightful social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sutherland on East Coal avenue. Playing musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. M. T. McLean, Mr. R. G. Sutherland, Miss Selfe and Miss Corbett. The music was sweet and full of responsive and agreeable hearts.

Tebo Concert.

It is seldom that music lovers have an opportunity to hear such a delightful program by high class musicians as that which will be offered in St. Mary's school auditorium Thursday, September 2, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Albuquerque is fortunate in having as residents a number of talented artists. The most prominent and gifted of these will be heard in St. Mary's next Thursday. Those who will participate are: I. L. Tello, violinist; Bruno Diekman, violinist; Mrs. R. M. Henderson, soprano and violinist; Mrs. M. S. Hinor, pianist; Stanley Seider, pianist; Miss Louise Nichols, pianist; Miss Louise Thorne, contralto; J. D. Falkenburg, tenor; Louis Heisselberg, basso. The concert will be the first musical event of the fall season and it is expected that a large audience will attend.

Moonglades—by the Author of The Martydom of an Enormous.

Marguerite de Ptenhoed, the heroine of this romance, returns to her home in Brittany, bringing with her the friend of her convent school days, Laurence Seton, an English girl.

Laurence is very beautiful outwardly, but her heart is cruel and unscrupulous. She marries Marguerite's kinsman, Basil Palizan, a Russian prince, for his money and position, and reveals her true character only after marriage.

She neglects her only child, carries on intrigues with her former lover, and is finally drowned while on a yachting cruise. The story comes to an end with the marriage of Marguerite and Basil. A poor thing possibly, but well written. The author's admirers will relish it for the purple patches.

Louisiana?—Robert Hugh Benson.

The heroine of this last story from the pen of Father Benson is a young English girl whose beautiful voice wins her a high place in the operatic world.

She is a very different person from the usual prima donna of fiction, very simple and girlish in spite of her great triumphs. She is a Catholic by training and the only particular in which success changes her is in the matter of her religion; she is still true to the form, but the inner meaning is lost to her. The man whom she loves is a protestant and she plans to marry him without regard for the Catholic decree concerning mixed marriages. Then misfortune befalls her. She loses her voice and with the death of her best friend, is off alone—for her lover, too, seems to fail her at this point. But in her loneliness she finds something that she has lost, her faith, and the story leaves her, having repented marriage, ready to turn to the church. The story is unusual both for its study of temperament, and its novel bits of analysis of Wagner operas.
